IPS heals relational trauma for youth and their families to restore their ability to build long-lasting, permanent connections

Then, through youth-driven, exhaustive search, potential permanent connections are identified and cultivated. The result is supportive, stable connection(s) that create belonging and lead to wellbeing and permanency outcomes for youth and their families.

Alia provides 36 months of intensive training and consultation to local teams who deliver IPS and find permanency for resource intensive, long-staying youth, and become subject matter experts in this proven methodology.
